// BIO - PROMPT LIVE //

Prompt Live is a genre defying producer, mixologist, sound architect and classically trained musician from one of the finest conservatories in Madrid, Spain.

Originally known as Manuel Fernandez Llorente, self-appointed his artist name as 'Prompt' deriving from the computer science symbol that appears when ones' computer is ready to receive an input.

Likewise, this is the same way Prompt sees the world through his eyes— with music he uses inputs to create tracks from what going on around the world and brings them together both technology with humanity in one moment.

From the age of eight, Manuel studied classical music at the (Real Conservatorio Superior de Musica). At this time, he developed his passion and strong determination to start a career as a musician.

Fast forward to 1996 when he landed a job at the Space of Sound Club (Madrid). Having just completing courses in composition and orchestration, Prompt used the Space of Sound as a testing ground for his sonic formations. Albeit through the pulse of the crowd and the hair standing up on his arms - Prompt quickly learned the art of keeping a dance floor moving. More specifically that harmonic arrangements should embrace the “less is more” and complex productions didn’t necessarily mean the dance floor would respond.

Thereafter, Prompt started making adjustments on his productions leading to his debut release called Evolve on his own label 7 Noise. Evolve was a formula that worked - not only with receiving critical acclaim and support by some of the world’s biggest producers, but the track was given a Beatport award deeming it as “classic” in the pages of underground dance music history.

As a club performer, Prompt is as unconventional as DJ’s come . . . so much that one can barely refer to him as a “DJ” -rather better known as an architect of live soundscapes with a killer analogue set up that nearly looks like he brought his home studio to the stage.

By crafting special live experiences according to the vibe of the crowd, Prompts music translates to world dance floors as a dynamic symphony transcending his shy persona through his artwork . . . his releases and live shows are responsible for outputs of sleek, intelligent yet driving strains of house and tech house music.

Today, Prompt Live is focused on the future and all it holds; at the same time he’s giving back to the same music world that gave something to him . . . he juggles the life of artist, producer/engineer, live performer and teacher/mentor (to underprivileged kids) all-the-while, above all-always remaining a student at the university of life . . . - j. hill, www.thewritingstudio.com
